

TOBY BISHOP

Senior Vice President

Expert in Utility Regulation, Financial Advisory, Market Analysis & Resource Planning, Litigation

Mr. Bishop has over 23 years of management and economic consulting experience advising energy industry clients throughout the United States and Canada. He has a broad range of expertise covering strategic, regulatory, financial, and transactional matters. Specifically, Mr. Bishop has extensive regulatory and civil litigation experience regarding both natural gas and electric issues, including federal and state rate case proceedings, market power and competitive concerns, asset purchase and sales transactions, contractual disputes, regulatory strategy, and policy formulation.

Mr. Bishop has extensive experience in the research, analysis, preparation and defense of expert testimony, reports, affidavits and other filings in over 50 administrative and civil proceedings on a wide range of energy and economic issues. Clients in these matters have included natural gas distribution companies, natural gas pipelines, natural gas storage providers, natural gas producers, electric utilities, and independent energy project developers. His testimony has included a range of issues including regulatory and economic policy, valuation for damages assessments, management prudence evaluations, and virtually all elements of the utility ratemaking process, including cost of service, cost allocation, rate design, and cost of capital. Mr. Bishop has testified before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Canada's National Energy Board, and the British Columbia Utilities Commission. Prior to the formation of Concentric Energy Advisors, Mr. Bishop consulted for several years with Reed Consulting Group and Navigant Consulting, Inc.
